ONE UNPROTECTED PET IS ALL IT TAKES.

Where there's one untreated pet in a multi-pet household, a much bigger problem can be lurking.

Many pet owners don't realize that an untreated cat can ruin their flea control efforts. The truth is, fleas only need one unprotected host in order to live, thrive and go on to infest a home.

SAYING "YES" TO FRONTLINE GOLD

REALITY CHECK – A common reason flea control fails is because there is an untreated pet in the home.

THE FACTS ON CATS

36.4%

of dog-owning households also own a cat.²

85%

of cat owners who came into the vet clinic left without purchasing a parasiticide.^{3*}

Untreated cats in the home can lead to a severe flea infestation - even if all other pets in the home are treated.

WIN. WIN. WIN.
